Who are the influencers and how are they marketing

As TV viewership continues to drop, TV companies' advertising is becoming less effective, so creative marketers, advertising agencies, and PR agencies trying to capture the attention of an online audience are asking the same question: "What is influencer marketing?" And while marketing with top social media influencers may seem like an indirect strategy to reach new and existing customers, the relationships between YouTube influencers, Instagram, Facebook, Twitter and bloggers with their followers ensure that audiences will not only see the brand's product or service but will be motivated to engage and buy based on influencer recommendations (sharing, likes, followers, conversions)

The question here is who are the social media influencers and why are they important

Influencers are a group of creative people who communicate with large audiences of their followers on social networking sites such as Facebook, Instagram or YouTube.

Influencers can become powerful advocates for brands in the process of building awareness of them and presenting their products or services with their right audience. In a world where recommendations and suggestions are spreading quickly among people on social media sites

These are the most popular on social media, their opinions are very valuable

How are they marketing?

An influencer is an individual with significant social reach who has the ability to "influence" the decisions made by his audience

Influencers have their own audience who follows them on social media channels

An influencer can become a brand advocate while promoting brands and offering a relevant product or service to their audience

And now influencers have similar power if not much more than most celebrities

What is the role of influencers in social media

The goal of every marketing campaign is ROI Social media influencer marketing campaigns can help achieve multiple business goals: reach the target audience, increase brand awareness, or increase sales

Social media influencers not only tell people what to buy but more importantly how to live. People are influenced by the lifestyle of different types of social media influencers

One of the common methods used by social media influencers is

Gifts: Brands send products to influencers and organize a contest with their followers. This leads to increased brand and product exposure

Advertising Posts: Social media influencers or social media promote products and services through advertising posts

Video content: Influencers use conversational video content to engage their followers

What are influencer marketing methods

The direct activity in influencer marketing is the promotion and advertising of products, through writing sales ads for them. But with the development of the influencer marketing strategy, there are many additional activities that can be counted, combining them during the implementation of the influencer marketing campaigns. One of the most popular influencer marketing activities

Reviews of products or services

Instead of promoting products in a direct way, focus on engaging influencers in carrying out reviews of your products or services, by sharing the advantages and disadvantages of the product, or simply displaying its experience of use to show how to use the product and enjoy its benefits

Unboxing products in a video

It is one of the best influencer marketing activities in terms of presentation, as it focuses on sending products to the influencer in a specially packaged box. The influencer is keen to share the contents of the box with the audience in a video, by starting to open it, and then gradually displaying the contents. This method helps to show the products to the audience in a creative and distinctive way that motivates them to buy

Filming a video for the use of the service

Just as the products are shown in videos, you can also focus on showing the services by shooting a video while getting the service. For example, if the service is with a dentist, then parts can be photographed during implementation, to show the workplace, its cleanliness and quality, and then share the final result with the public, to emphasize the quality of the service, and to convince individuals to obtain it when they want to implement it

Contests and free giveaways

Contests are one of the most popular influencer marketing activities, especially when you want to increase the number of followers or visitors to the website, or even collect data from the audience. It is necessary to agree with the influencer on the terms of the competition to display it to followers, for example: sharing posts on pages, mentioning friends in the post (mention), making sure to follow the project page, and other conditions. The influencer then selects the winners in accordance with the implementation of these conditions, and gives them free gifts from the project's products or services

Share discount codes

One of the good activities in influencer marketing is to give the influencer their own discount code, which they can share with their audience, and assure them that if they make a purchase using the code, they will get a certain discount. This method is effective, because it gives the influencer exclusivity among his audience, as well as the ability to evaluate the performance of marketing campaigns, by determining the number of people who actually made purchases based on the code

Interviews with influencers

This method focuses on conducting interviews with influencers, for example, creating a video or written dialogue with them, or even hosting them in the project's podcast. When the influencer shares this encounter with the audience, he indirectly introduces them to your project, and at the same time he can share his discount code, for the audience to use in making purchases

Importance and benefits of influencer marketing

Influencers make it easier for marketers to connect with consumers in an authentic way by having a large social media following that respects the influencer's opinion, and by tracking reach, impressions, click-through rates, attraction metrics and ROI for influencer marketing campaigns, brands can Also use influencer marketing in order to better understand customer needs and priorities. Campaign metrics and Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) vary based on each brand's campaign expectations and goals, but influencer marketing campaigns usually significantly exceed returns compared to traditional marketing strategies
